NIGHT and DAY CALLS

Promptly and Personally Attended To.

NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

C. C. SHAYNE and the Annandale Glee Club at Liscomb's Opera House to-night.

GEN. BENJAMIN F. BUTLER has come out squarely at last for Harrison and Protection. That Sackville-West letter did the business for him.

DIPLOMATIC STUDENT: The full name of the British Minister is Lord Lionel S. Cleveland-Burchard Sackville-West. Be sure to put in the hyphens.

IF DAVID B. HILL should want to be endorsed by two hundred clergymen, or even five clergymen, where would he find them? Not in Elmira, where he is best known.

THE highest wages paid for labor by Roger Q. Mills at home is $7 a month. He is employed by the Democratic party to teach the workmen of the North the blessings of free trade.

C. C. SHAYNE, who is to speak at Liscomb's Opera House to-night, is a well-known successful business man, fully qualified to speak upon the great questions in this campaign. Every working man in the city should hear him.

MR. CLEVELAND finds a great crowd of Democratic business men in New York to-day. There are 13,000 saloons in New York and Brooklyn, and every saloon could, if necessary, furnish ten business men, whose chief "business" is either to sell or buy drinks.

PROHIBITIONISTS in Ulster county should read the clergymen's appeal on the second page, and then ask themselves the question whether they can justify their position in voting for a third party candidate for Governor, when such action is directly in the interest of David B. Hill, the candidate of the liquor interest and the saloons.

A HARRISON and Morton pole was raised by a new Democratic club in Lockport last Thursday. The club contains over 100 members, every one of whom voted for Cleveland four years ago. The stamper from Cleveland in Western New York which has just set in exceeds in volume and earnestness that which took place earlier in the season.

LORD SACKVILLE WEST explains that he marked his letter to the California Englishman "Private" according to his usual custom, to distinguish it from letters written relating to the business of the location. He supposed it would be shown to others than the recipient, and would willingly have consented to its publication if he had been asked.

THERE are 33 clergymen in Elmira, the home of David B. Hill. They are of all denominations and creeds—Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, Episcopalian, Unitarian, Catholic, etc.; they differ widely in their theological views; but they are a unit in condemning David B. Hill as unfit to be Governor, and are doing their level best to defeat him. This is a more wholesale desertion than that of Grover Cleveland by the clergymen of Buffalo in 1884.

MR. CLEVELAND has not yet registered in Buffalo, and if he intends to vote he will have to go there in person and attend to it. It will also be expedient for him to carry along $93.12, the amount of tax which he has owed the city since 1885, and to save which he renounced his residence and citizenship. It is also said that there are several Republicans in Buffalo who will challenge the President if he undertakes to deposit his vote, and compel him to swear it in. Altogether, it is thought quite likely that the President will elect to keep away from Buffalo.

WE publish to-day one of the most remarkable and powerful documents ever issued in this state during a political campaign. It is signed by more than two hundred clergymen, many of them of national reputation. They call upon all good citizens who are in sympathy with "the cause of temperance, a pure ballot, the sanctity of the Sabbath and moral order" to support Warner Miller for Governor. This is the most crushing blow that Governor Hill has received during the campaign, and ought to result in his overwhelming defeat.

VERY lively correspondence is now going on between London and Washington over the Sackville-West letter. Mr. Bayard, who at first thought the letter harmless because it was marked "private," begins to show great indignation. He has not sent the minister his passport, but is waiting to hear from the British foreign office. It is intimated that the minister will soon ask for his own recall. But nothing is to be done without the full assent of the British government. This was not Grant's way with Catechy in the days when the government was not run by cowards and tuft-hunters.

JOHN BRODERICK, the Republican Inspector of Elections who detected George Gordon in an attempt at false registration, and has since caused him to be sent to state prison, has been paid $2,000 out of the $25,000 offered by the Republican National Committee for the detection of such crimes. There still remains $23,000 to be divided up in sums of $500 for other convictions. Gordon says he made a mistake in reporting himself a Republican on being arrested; he did this because the officer was a Republican, and he hoped he would let him go. He thinks now that he would have fared better in the Democratic court that tried him if he had shown his true party color.

ULSTER county gave both Garfield and Blaine a majority. It is going to do the same for Harrison and Morton. In 1880 and 1884 the Republicans elected also their county tickets, two of three Assemblymen, and gave large majorities for their Congressional candidates. This was a proud record. It established Republican supremacy here and caused Ulster to be regarded elsewhere as one of the solid and reliable Republican counties of the state. This record should not be broken in 1888. Let every Republican vote for the county nominees and make no trades with those who are anxious to barter off those already defeated candidates, Cleveland and Hill. There will be no end of opportunities offered, but Harrison and Miller ask no votes at the expense of local nominees.

THAT PARADE IN NEW-YORK

Democrats who Toddled Along in the Rain To-Day.

NOT A GREAT SUCCESS.

Business Men, Alleged and Otherwise, in Line.

Cars Go Down an Embankment—Two Men Perish.

SWINDLED BY SHARPERS.

Another Well-do-Farmer Fleeced Out of $800.

POPE AND PARNELL FUND.

A Somewhat Doubtful Story that the "London Times" Correspondent at Rome Sends.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 27.—The weather for the "business men's" Cleveland and Thurman demonstration was anything but favorable to-day. The wind still held in the northeast and everything was damp and uncomfortable. Broadway was covered with pools of water and mud, and now and then the rain would fall quite hard. The march up Broadway commenced promptly at 1:30 p. m. Most of the men carried umbrellas, and all of them had bandannas, badges or flags.

The line of march was from Bowling Green up Broadway to Waverly Place, through Waverly Place to Fifth avenue, and up Fifth-avenue past the reviewing stand at Twenty-Fourth-street, where President Cleveland reviewed his followers. The organization marched to Twenty-Ninth-street and Seventh-avenue before disbanding.

The Democratic members of the various exchanges paid but little attention to business, this morning, and were all at work getting ready for the parade. Some of the students of the Medical Department of the University of the City of New York and a number of the law students of Columbia College were added to the list of organizations in the First Division to-day, and the other 20 clubs received additions to their numbers.

The grand stand was placed directly opposite the World Monument, and was covered with flags and bunting. In front of the stand there was a reviewing box which projected a short distance, and in this the President stood while the paraders passed. This enclosure a dozen or more prominent Democrats stood with him. The remainder of the stand was occupied by prominent citizens who had been given tickets of admission to the number of 700. The police, 300 in number, were stationed around the square.

The Committee to escort the President from the house of Secretary Whitney went to the house at 1 o'clock and waited until the head of the procession was at hand. They then drove to the reviewing stand.

Chief among the prominent men on the grand stand and near President Cleveland stood Mayor Hewitt. Mrs. Cleveland and her mother reviewed the scene from the Albemarle Hotel in rooms provided for them by Congressman Scott, who acted as their escort.

BRIEF PHOTOGRAPHS OF JOURNALISTS.

Men Who Work Quietly and Help Form Public Opinion Every Day.

"Bill Nye," in an article on journalism, very truly remarks: "I believe that a person should avoid an offensive parade of the fact that he is connected with the press. Those who announce in clarion tones among strangers that they are journalists, are generally more proud of the fact than the profession is. A lawyer who talks loudly on board trains about the cases he is engaged upon, is generally out of a job, and has to go to jail personally to pick up little petty larceny cases to defend. So with the man connected with the press. His large display to that effect is generally an injury to his business and takes the edge off his success."

On the envelopes used by the Gloucester Monitor appears the following:

"The Glouster Monitor," Dealer in Births, Marriages, Deaths, Sermons, and Other Yarns. Wicked, Worldly & Independent. Borrowed by Neighbors: Used by the Clergy. Chas. O. Lyman, Ed. & Prop. Glouster, N. Y. Returns After 10 Days.

The country newspaper offers a wide field for the cultivation of home talent. Suggestions are received in a kindly spirit by the wise editor, who thus becomes custodian of many a precious secret. As a matter of fact he has to be a kind of sponge, taking a great deal in and requiring a very hard squeeze to bring anything out. The power which a good country newspaper wields has never been accurately estimated. It is a recognized educator of the country masses, and in times of civil commotion its utterances are carefully weighed. That power will never depart from it so long as it keeps a high standard of morality—i. e. while its pages can be scanned without fear of moral taint—and it is to be hoped the time is far distant when the provincial press, as a body, will be regarded as other than temperate, honest and wholesome.—Press and Printer.

A good reporter is always first cousin to a meconormer, and can introduce himself to you in such a genial way that, for the time being, he seems like your long lost brother, who is anxious to show you the strawberry mark on his left arm in proof of his identity. You talk with him about the inner secrets of your life in a profane sort of way, give him your opinion about the resumption of specie payment, and as the conversation flows, freely unfold yourself on various other matters. He sits a silent and admiring listener, encouraging you by a nod when you are hunting for the right word, or readily supplying it himself, and gives you the impression that he wouldn't disclose what you have told him—no, not for worlds on worlds. The next day you take up the paper, and while carelessly looking over its columns, see the name of the reporter who has so readily supplied himself, and you are astonished to find, as long as Bunker Hill monument. Every word you have said is there. That man, with the strawberry mark on his arm, was the small end of a speaking trumpet, through which you, unconsciously, told the whole world all about yourself. He had no pencil or paper, and didn't evince any desire to write in shorthand. Oh, no; that is the clumsy way in which beginners work. His skill is not in his finger tips, but in his memory. He memorized every word you said and repeated it with perfect accuracy. The accomplished reporter is as nearly ubiquitous as a merely human being ever becomes, and is beginning to be regarded as a moral restraint, in many respects superior to the Decalogue. A man in the olden time might break the Decalogue, and he might break it now, but the moment a law is broken the quick ear of the reporter catches the sound, and his persuasive lips compel you to tell him all about it. He is an animated interrogation point; a human corkscrow, who gets a deeper hold on your secret every time he turns round. His mission is summed up in the short, but terrible sentence, "If you do it I'll tell." What religion can't do the fear of the reporter will accomplish.—Printer's Miscellany.

A GIANTIC MORTGAGE SWINDLE.

Gustave Falk Arrested in Chicago; His Confession Implicates a Large Gang.

By Telegraph to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Gustave Falk, a native of Sweden, who has been arrested here, charged with being a confederate in a gigantic mortgage swindle, whereby the Guaranty Association, of Stockholm, Sweden, is loser to an enormous amount. A week ago the Swedish Vice-Consul, at Chicago, received word from a Washington source that the authorities at Stockholm had sent broad cast a circular describing Falk, who was wanted for forgery. He communicated the fact to the police, with the result given. Falk turned over to the officers the keys to an apartment in the National Safety Deposit vaults, where they found $2,114 in bank notes. He also surrendered a gold watch and chain which he had purchased with the proceeds of his forgery, and made a written confession. In his sworn statement he reveals a gigantic conspiracy to commit fraud, in which he himself is but an insignificant factor. He says that in Stockholm there exists a gang of mortgage forgers and confidence operators who have swindled the banks for years; that they are extremely secretive and only communicate with each other by mail. He gave the names of his companions and on this information the Consul immediately cabled to the authorities at Stockholm to cause their arrest. Falk is 45 years old and has a wife and family living in Sweden. He says his share of the forgeries amounted to $4,500 and he cannot tell what the others received because each negotiated the sale of the forged mortgages and kept the proceeds. The manner in which the fraud was perpetrated is not known.

[Free trade and protection will be discussed in Liscomb's Opera House, Rondout, this evening, by C. C. Shayne, a New-York merchant.]

The only bit of road Kingston cyclists have had for some time to run their wheels on has been Albany-avenue. Owing to the many rain storms even this avenue has only been in fit condition for cycling 3 or 4 days during the present month. No sooner does it become dry than another rain storm comes and deluges it.

It is not probable that there will be horse racing on the Kingston Driving Park again this season. It was intended to have a first class exhibition of horse trotting this month. The rainy weather, however, has kept the track in such a condition that it cannot be used.

He has not sent the minister his passports, but is waiting to hear from the British foreign office. It is intimated that the minister will soon ask for his own recall. But nothing is to be done without the full assent of the British government. This was not Grant's way with Catanzar in the days when the government was not run by cowards and tuft-hunters.

JOHN BRODHEAD, the Republican Inspector of Elections who detected George Gordon in an attempt at false registration, and has since caused him to be sent to state prison, has been paid $2,000 out of the $25,000 offered by the Republican National Committee for the detection of such crimes. There still remains $23,000 to be divided up in sums of $500 for other convictions. Gordon says he made a mistake in reporting himself a Republican on being arrested; he did this because the officer was a Republican, and he hoped he would let him go. He thinks now that he would have fared better in the Democratic court that tried him if he had shown his true party color.

ULSTER county gave both Garfield and B'aise a majority. It is going to do the same for Harrison and Morton. In 1880 and 1884 the Republicans elected also their county tickets, two of three Assemblymen, and gave large majorities for their Congressional candidates. This was a proud record. It established Republican supremacy here and caused Ulster to be regarded elsewhere as one of the solid and reliable Republican counties of the state. This record should not be broken in 1888. Let every Republican vote for the county nominees and make no trades with those who are anxious to barter off those already defeated candidates, Cleveland and Hill. There will be no end of opportunities offered, but Harrison and Miller ask no votes at the expense of local nominees.

NEW-YORK, Oct. 27.—The weather for the "business men's" Cleveland and Thurman demonstration was anything but favorable to-day. The wind still held in the northeast and everything was damp and uncomfortable. Broadway was covered with pools of water and mud, and now and then the rain would fall quite hard. The march up Broadway commenced promptly at 1:30 p. m. Most of the men carried umbrellas, and all of them had bandannas, badges or flags.

The line of march was from Bowling Green up Broadway to Waverly Place, through Waverly Place to Fifth avenue, and up Fifth-avenue past the reviewing stand at Twenty-Fourth street, where President Cleveland reviewed his followers. The organization marched to Twenty-Ninth-street and Seventh-avenue before disbanding.

The Democratic members of the various exchanges paid but little attention to business, this morning, and were all at work getting ready for the parade. Some of the students of the Medical Department of the University of the City of New York and a number of the law students of Columbia College were added to the list of organizations in the First Division to-day, and the other 20 clubs received the additions to their numbers.

The grand stand was placed directly opposite the Worth Monument, and was covered with flags and bunting. In front of the stand there was a reviewing box which projected a short distance, and in this the President stood while the parades passed. This enclosure a dozen or more prominent Democrats stood with him. The remainder of the stand was occupied by prominent citizens who had been given tickets of admission to the number of 700. The police, 300 in number, were stationed around the Square.

The Committee to escort the President from the house of Secretary Whitney went to the house at 1 o'clock and waited until the head of the procession was at hand. They then drove to the reviewing stand.

Chief among the prominent men on the grand stand and near President Cleveland stood Mr. Hewitt. Mrs. Cleveland and her mother reviewed the scene from the Alleman Hotel in rooms provided for them by Congressman Scott, who acted as their escort.

BRIEF PHOTOGRAPHS OF JOURNALISTS.

Men Who Work Quietly and Help Form Public Opinion Every Day.

Critics dispute—Bayard.
"Bill Nye," in an article on journalism, very truly remarks: "I believe that a person should avoid an offensive parade of the fact that he is connected with the press. Those who announce in declaration tones among strangers that they are journalists, and generally more proud of the fact than the profession is. A lawyer who talks loudly on board trains about the cases he is engaged upon, is generally out of a job, and has to go to jail personally to pick up little petty lawyers' cases to defend. So with the man connected with the press. His large display to that effect is generally an injury to his business and takes the edge off his success."

The country newspaper offers a wide field for the cultivation of home talent. Suggestions are received in a kindly spirit by the wise editor, who thus becomes custodian of many a precious secret. As a matter of fact he has to be a kind of sponge, taking a great deal in and requiring a very hard squeeze to bring anything out. The power which a good country newspaper wields has never been accurately estimated. It is a recognized educator of the country masses, and in times of civil commotion its utterances are carefully weighed. That power will never depart from it so long as it keeps a high standard of morality—i. e., while its pages can be scanned without fear of moral taint—and it is to be hoped the time is far distant when the provincial press, as a body, will be regarded as other than temperate, honest and whole-souled.—Press and Printer.

A good reporter is always first cousin to a necromancer, and can introduce himself to you in such a genial way that, for the time being, he seems like your long lost brother, who is anxious to show you the strawberry mark on his left arm in proof of his identity. You talk with him about the inner secrets of your life, in a profuse sort of way, give him the most confidential information of special importance, and as the conversation flows, freely unfold yourself on various other matters. He sits a silent and admiring listener, encouraging you by a nod when you are hunting for the right word, or possibly supplying it himself, and gives you the impression that he wouldn't disclose what you have told him—no, not for worlds on worlds. The next day you take up the paper, and while carelessly looking over its columns, see your own name in capitals, which seem to your astonished gaze, as long as Bunker Hill monument. Every word you have said is there. That man, with the strawberry mark on his arm, is a sneak, a traitor, a scoundrel, through which you, unconsciously, told the whole world all about yourself. He had no pencil or paper, and didn't evince any desire to write in shorthand. Oh, no; that is the clumsy way in which big game hunters record their kills. His skill is not in his finger tips, but in his memory. He memorized every word you said and reproduced it with perfect accuracy. The accomplished reporter is as nearly ubiquitous as a mouse, and he is a sneak, a traitor, and is beginning to be regarded as a moral restraint, in many respects superior to the Decalogue. A man in the olden time might break the Decalogue, and hide the pieces, but now a days the moment a man is asked the question of the reporter catches the sound, and his persuasive lips compel you to tell him all about it. He is an animated interrogation point; a human cork-screw, who gets a deeper hold on your secret every time he turns round. His mission is summed up in the short, but terrible sentence, "If you do it I'll tell." What religion can't do the fear of the reporter will accomplish.—Printer's Miscellany.

A GIGANTIC MORTGAGE SWINDLE.

By Telegram to The Freeman.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Gustave Falk, a native of Sweden, has been arrested here, charged with being a confederate in a gigantic mortgage swindle, whereby the Guaranty Association, of Stockholm, Sweden, is loser to an enormous amount. A week ago the Swedish Vice-Consul, at Chicago, received word from Washington that the authorities at Stockholm had sent broad cast a circular describing Falk, who was wanted for forgery. He committed suicide, and the police, with the result given. Falk turned over to the officers the keys to an apartment in the National Safety Deposit vaults, where they found $2,114 in bank notes. He also surrendered a gold watch and chain which he had purchased with the proceeds of his forgery, and made a written confession. In his sworn statement he reveals a gigantic conspiracy to commit fraud, in which he himself is but an insignificant factor. He says that in Stockholm there exists a gang of mortgage forgers and confidence operators who have swindled the banks for years; that they are extremely secretive and only communicate with each other by mail. He gave the names of his companions and on this information the Consul immediately cabled to the authorities at Stockholm to cause his arrest. Falk is 45 years old and has a wife and family living in Sweden. He says his share of the forgeries amounted to $4,500 and he cannot tell what the others received because each negotiated the sale of the forged mortgages and kept proceeds. The manner in which the fraud was perpetrated is not known.

The only bit of road Kingston cyclists have had for some time to run their wheels on has been Albany-avenue. Owing to the many rain storms even this avenue has only been in fit condition for cycling 3 or 4 days during the present month. No sooner does it become dry than another rain storm comes and deluges it.

It is not probable that there will be horse racing on the Kingston Driving Park again this season. It was intended to have a first-class exhibition of horse trotting this month. The rainy weather, however, has kept the track in such a condition that it cannot be used.

NOTES ON NEWS OF THE DAY.

C. C. SHAYNE and the Annandale Glee Club at Liscomb's Opera House to-night.

GEN. BENJAMIN F. BUTLER has come out squarely at last for Harrison and Protection. That Sackville-West letter did the business for him.

DIPLOMATIC STUDENT: The full name of the British Minister is Lord Lionel S. Cleveland-Burchard Sackville-West. Be sure to put in the hyphens.

IF DAVID B. HILL should want to be endorsed by two hundred clergymen, or even five clergymen, where would he find them? Not in Elmira, where he is best known.

THE highest wages paid for labor by Roger Q. Mills at home is $7 a month. He is employed by the Democratic party to teach the workmen of the North the blessings of free trade.

C. C. SHAYNE, who is to speak at Liscomb's Opera House to-night, is a well-known successful business man, fully qualified to speak upon the great questions in this campaign. Every working man in the city should hear him.

MR. CLEVELAND finds a great crowd of Democratic business men in New York to-day. There are 13,000 saloons in New York and Brooklyn, and every saloon could, if necessary, furnish ten business men, whose chief "business" is either to sell or buy drinks.

PROHIBITIONISTS in Ulster county should read the clergymen's appeal on the second page, and then ask themselves the question whether they can justify their position in voting for a third party candidate for Governor, when such action is directly in the interest of David B. Hill, the candidate of the liquor interest and the saloons.

A HARRISON and Morton pole was raised by a new Democratic club in Lockport last Thursday. The club contains over 100 members, every one of whom voted for Cleveland four years ago. The stamper from Cleveland in Western New York which has just set in exceeds in volume and earnestness that which took place earlier in the season.

LORD SACKVILLE WEST explains that he marked his letter to the California Englishman "Private" according to his usual custom, to distinguish it from letters written relating to the business of the legation. He supposed it would be shown to others than the recipient, and would willingly have consented to its publication if he had been asked.

THERE are 33 clergymen in Elmira, the home of David B. Hill. They are of all denominations and creeds—Methodist, Presbyterian, Baptist, Episcopalian, Unitarian, Catholic, etc.; they differ widely in their theological views; but they are all in condemning David B. Hill as unfit to be Governor, and are doing their level best to defeat him. This is a more wholesale desertion than that of Grover Cleveland by the clergymen of Buffalo in 1884.

MR. CLEVELAND has not yet registered in Buffalo, and if he intends to vote he will have to go there in person and attend to it. It will also be expedient for him to carry along $93.12, the amount of tax which he has owed the city since 1885, and to save which he renounced his residence and citizenship. It is also said that there are several Republicans in Buffalo who will challenge the President if he undertakes to deposit his vote, and compel him to swear it in. Altogether, it is thought quite likely that the President will elect to keep away from Buffalo.

We publish to-day one of the most remarkable and powerful documents ever issued in this state during a political campaign. It is signed by more than two hundred clergymen, many of them of national reputation. They call upon all good citizens who are in sympathy with "the cause of temperance, a pure ballot, the sanctity of the Sabbath and moral order" to support Warner Miller for Governor. This is the most crushing blow that Governor Hill has received during the campaign, and ought to result in his overwhelming defeat.

VERY lively correspondence is now going on between London and Washington over the Sackville-West letter. Mr. Bayard, who at first thought the letter harmless because it was marked "private," begins to show great indignation. He has not sent the minister his passports, but is waiting to hear from the British foreign office. It is intimated that the minister will soon ask for his own recall. But nothing is to be done without the full assent of the British government. This was not Grant's way with Catanzary in the days when the government was not run by cowards and tuft-hunters.

JOHN BRODERICK, the Republican Inspector of Elections who detected George Gordon in an attempt at false registration, and has since caused him to be sent to state prison, has been paid $2,000 out of the $25,000 offered by the Republican National Committee for the detection of such crimes. There still remains $23,000 to be divided up in sums of $500 for other convictions. Gordon says he made a mistake in reporting himself a Republican on being arrested; he did this because the officer was a Republican, and he hoped he would let him go. He thinks now that he would have fared better in the Democratic court that tried him if he had shown his true party color.

ULSTER county gave both Garfield and B. Hill a majority. It is going to do the same for Harrison and Protection. In 1880 and 1884 the Republicans elected also their county tickets, two of three Assemblymen, and gave large majorities for their Congressional candidates. This was a proud record. There will be no end of opportunities offered, but Harrison and Miller ask no votes at the expense of local nominees.

Gilboa, N. Y. — Returns After 10 Days.

The country newspaper offers a wide field for the cultivation of home talent. Suggestions are received in a kindly spirit by the wise editor, who thus becomes custodian of many a precious secret. As a matter of fact he has to be a kind of sponge, taking a great deal in and requiring a very hard squeeze to bring anything out. The power which a good country newspaper wields has never been accurately estimated. It is a recognized educator of the country masses, and in times of civil commotion its utterances are carefully weighed. That power will never depart from it so long as it keeps a high standard of morality—i. e., while its pages can be scanned without fear of moral taint—and it is to be hoped the time is far distant when the provincial press, as a body, will be regarded as other than temperate, honest and whole-souled.—Press and Printer.

A good reporter is always first cousin to a necromancer, and can introduce himself to you in such a genial way that, for the time being, he seems like your long lost brother, who is anxious to show you the strawberry mark on his left arm in proof of his identity. You talk with him about the inner secrets of your life, in a profuse sort of way, give him your opinion about the resumption of specie payment, and, as the conversation flows, freely unfold yourself on various other matters. He sits a silent and admiring listener, encouraging you by a nod when you are hunting for the right word, or possibly supplying it himself, and gives you the impression that he wouldn't disclose what you have told him—no, not for worlds on worlds. The next day you take up the paper, and while casually looking over its columns, see your own name in capitals, which seem to you astonished gaze, as long as Bunker Hill monument. Every word you have said is there. That man, with the strawberry mark on his arm, was a student of a speaking report, through which you, unconsciously, told the whole world all about yourself. He had no pencil or paper, and didn't evince any desire to write in shorthand. Oh, no; that is the clumsy way in which beginners work. His skill is in his finger tip, but in his memory. He memorized every word you said and reproduced it with perfect accuracy. The accomplished reporter is as nearly ubiquitous as a merely human being ever becomes, and is beginning to be regarded as a moral restraint, in many respects superior to the Decalogue. A man in the olden time might break the Decalogue, and hide the pieces, but now a days the moment a law is broken the quick ear of the reporter catches the sound, and his perspicacious lips compel you to tell him all about it. He is an animated interrogation point, a human corker, who gets a deeper hold on your secret every time he turns round. His mission is summed up in the short, but terrible sentence, "If you do it I'll tell." What religion can't do the feat of the reporter will accomplish.—Printer's Miscellany.

A GIGANTIC MORTGAGE SWINDLE.

Gustave Falk Arrested in Chicago; His Confession Shows a Large Gang.

By Telegram to the Freeman.

CHICAGO, Oct. 27.—Gustave Falk, a native of Sweden, has been arrested here, charged with being a confederate in a gigantic mortgage swindle, whereby the Guaranty Association, of Stockholm, Sweden, is loser to an enormous amount. A week ago the Swedish Vice-Consul, at Chicago, received word from Washington that the authorities at Stockholm had sent broadcast a circular describing Falk, who was wanted for forgery. He communicated the news to the police, with the result given. Falk turned over to the officers the keys to an apartment in the National Safety Deposit vaults, where they found $2,114 in bank notes. He also surrendered a gold watch and chain which he had purchased with the proceeds of his forgery, and made a written confession. In his sworn statement he reveals a gigantic conspiracy to commit fraud, in which he himself is but an insignificant factor. He says that in Stockholm there exists a gang of mortgage forgers and confidence operators who have swindled the banks for years; that they are extremely secretive and only communicate with each other by mail. He gave the names of his companions and made the names of his confederates known to the authorities at Stockholm to cause their arrest. Falk is 45 years old and has a wife and family living in Sweden. He says his share of the forgeries amounted to $4,500 and he cannot tell what the others received because each negotiated the sale of the forged mortgages and kept the proceeds. The manner in which the fraud was perpetrated is not known.

(Free trade and protection will be discussed in Liscomb's Opera House, Rondout, this evening, by C. C. Shayne, a New-York merchant.)

Man must have amusement.—DeJoy.

The only bit of road Kingston cyclists have had for some time to run their wheels on has been Albany-avenue. Owing to the many fine condition for cycling 3 or 4 days during the present month. No sooner does it become dry than another rain storm comes and deluges it.

It is not probable that there will be horse racing on the Kingston Driving Park again this season. It was intended to have a first-class exhibition of horse trotting this month. The rainy weather, however, has kept the track in such a condition that it cannot be used.
